Manner of Fred Wolf Death Is Undetermined

Loon Lake Man Found Fatally Wounded from Shotgun Blast

Found fatally wounded from a shotgun blast at his Loon lake home yesterday afternoon, Fred Wolf, 40, died while being rushed to St. Therese hospital in Waukegan by members of the Antioch Rescue squad.

Left alone at his home yesterday afternoon while his wife, Mabel, drove to Libertyville to pay his union dues, Wolf had been raking and doing some spring cleaning around his premises and in the basement of his place, known as "Iceman's Inn." When the wife returned shortly after 4 p. m. she found her husband lying unconscious at the entrance of the basement stairway, and his 20-gauge shotgun at the foot of the steps. One empty shell was in the gun, according to sheriff's deputies who had been summoned to the scene by radio.

Calls Rescue Squad
Summoned immediately were Dr. Breakstone of Antioch and the local rescue squad. The physician expressed little hope for the wounded man, but advised the rescue men to take him immediately to the hospital. He was pronounced dead by a physician at the hospital and the body was brought to Strang's funeral home here.

At the inquest held by Coroner John Taylor at the funeral home this morning the jury returned a verdict of "death from a shotgun wound inflicted in undetermined manner."

Lifelong Resident
Fred "Fritz" Wolf was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wolf, natives of Germany who came to this country more than half a century ago, and Fred was born in the vicinity of Loon lake April 17, 1904. Twelve years ago he was married to Miss Mabel Mae Karvaseh, of Chicago. There are two sons, Fred, Jr., 10, and Roger, 3 years old. The family lived in the apartment over the tavern.

His father, Andrew, was in the ice business at Loon lake, and later the son was engaged in the same business there. When he built his tavern several years ago he named it "The Iceman's Inn."

During the past winter he had been working as a carpenter at the Douglas aircraft plant west of Chicago.

Surviving are the wife and two sons, two brothers, George of Grass Lake and Frank of Loon lake; also two sisters—Mrs. Carl Barthel and Mayme Wolf. Two brothers, Peter and John, are dead.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock at Strang's funeral home.

Complete Red Cross Drive in Lake Villa

Collect $1,329.70; Chairman Wm. M. Weber Grateful to Committee

A final report on the Red Cross War Fund Drive of Lake Villa Township from Chairman Wm. M. Weber gives the total collected as $1,329.70. This is more than twice as much as was contributed in the last drive in June, 1942. Mr. Weber feels that much of the success of this generous response from the community was due to the untiring efforts of his canvassing committee who did such an excellent job in the collection of the contributions.

The members of this committee were: Mrs. Chas. A. Anderson, Mrs. John Stratton, Mrs. Boris Riedel, Mrs. Earl Hucker, Mrs. Wm. H. Marz, Mrs. Raymond Dwyer, Mrs. Raymond Hussey, Mrs. Louis Schwartz, Mrs. Robert McCann, Mrs. Lloyd Atwell, Mrs. R. L. Gunnarson, Mrs. C. D. Sherwood, Mrs. Gordon Bonner, Miss Ruth Cremin, Mrs. George Joedicke, C. M. Trowbridge, M. L. Norris and A. F. Dick.

Mr. Weber wishes to extend his personal thanks to all who contributed to the Township Drive, thereby making such a fine showing possible for Lake Villa.

Sgt. George Adamek Is Wounded in Action

Mrs. John Walker of Lake Villa today received word from the War Department that her son, Sgt. George Adamek, now serving on the African front, had been wounded in action.

More Antioch Men To Enter Armed Service

Among Antioch young men who have taken their physical examinations for induction into army service this week are Dean Weber, William E. Brook, and Ray Quadenfeld. Norman Jedeie, Homer LaPlant and Carl Pachay have taken blood tests at St. Therese hospital in Waukegan, and will be inducted soon.

R. G. Holtz, who has been training in Chicago is now instructor in the army signal corps.

Make Plans for Second War Loan Campaign Tonight

Local Committees to Meet This Evening to Complete Arrangements

A meeting of committees in charge of Antioch's participation in the Second War Loan drive, which starts April 12, is being held this evening in the First National Bank building. All organizations of the community are represented on the committee, of which Otto S. Klass is general chairman.

The State Bank of Antioch and the Antioch First National bank will cooperate with this drive, as they did in the first, and E. J. Brook and C. K. Anderson are co-chairmen of the bankers' division.

Plans for the local drive will be completed at this evening's meeting.

13 Billion Goal
The drive has as its national goal the raising of thirteen billion dollars. This money will be used for the training of men, the manufacture of weapons of warfare, the manufacture of shipping, and other war expenses.

Eight million tons of shipping were built last year. Army and Navy men announce 18 million tons as this year's goal, and state that even this will not be enough.

It is pointed out that contributions to the war loan drive in the form of bond purchases are not a loan, but an investment in U. S. government securities.

"Every cent you put in War Bonds now will help to guarantee plenty of peace time jobs making peace-living for every one of us," it is emphasized by the committee for the drive.

See Quiet School Elections Saturday

Except for the possibility of "write in" candidates, voters in both the grade and high school districts expect no contests in the elections for school board members to be held here Saturday.

Balloting at the High School will be from 12 noon to 7:00 p. m. The two candidates for the only vacancies occurring this year are Mrs. Helen Osmond, present secretary of the board, and Arthur E. Bennett, of Cedar Lake. Arthur Mapleshorpe, president, will retire at the expiration of his term.

The grade school election, District 34, will be held from 12 noon to 7:00 p. m. The candidates are Mrs. Ida Kufalk for president, and Mrs. Helen Patrovsky and Roy E. Burdick for board members.

A special ballot will also be submitted carrying two propositions intended to validate a tax levy approved in 1929, and on which the Soo Line railway refuses to pay its taxes due to a technicality uncovered by sharpshooters attorneys of the company. By voting yes on the propositions the railroad will be forced to pay its just portion of taxes for the maintenance of our schools. The measure is not for an increase and will cost no taxpayer any additional taxes—a favorable vote will merely validate the tax levy already in effect and which taxpayers have been paying for the past 13 years.

Township to Elect Trustee
Also at the high school on Saturday from 1 to 6 p. m. an election will be held for one township school trustee. The candidate is Bert Edwards, a veteran on the board, who is up for re-election without opposition. Other members of the board are D. H. Minto and Otto S. Klass.

The township board of school trustees consists of three members who serve six year terms. One member is elected every second year. The board approves the school budget, fixes levies for taxes, and appoints a treasurer to handle the school funds of the township. The office of treasurer has been held by George B. Bartlett for many years.

Legion Collects Guns for Ninth District Ordnance

Navy Men Will Accept Accumulation of Weapons at Meeting April 15

A delegation from the Ninth Naval District Ordnance department will be present at a meeting of the Antioch American Legion post Thursday evening, April 15, to accept custody of a collection of rifles, pistols, knives and other weapons assembled by the Legion.

The collection, a comprehensive one, is now on display in the Antioch Township library. It was assembled at the request of the Navy.

J. O. Saurette, commander USN (retired), district ordnance officer, has written to announce that while he will be unable to be present in person to accept custody of the weapons, Lt. T. H. Long, Lt. W. J. Corbett, Jr., and Ensign H. G. Halvorson, as well as several other Navy men, will be present to accept the guns in his behalf.

He adds, "I wish to thank you on behalf of the Navy for the splendid effort in this campaign."

Another feature of the evening will be a view of the addition to the BOYS IN SERVICE SIGN. Seventy-five names have been lettered on the wings of the sign, bringing the present total up to 210.

In addition, there will be a celebration of the membership drive, which has now reached a 100 per cent quota of 110 members paid-up for 1943.

Dance at Lake Villa
Requests have been received from Lake Villa for the Antioch Legion post to sponsor a dance there.

Saturday, May 1, has been tentatively decided upon as the date for this event, which will be held in the Lake Villa village hall. All proceeds will go to the Military Service fund of Antioch and Lake Villa townships. This fund has been sponsored by the Antioch post, and has been used in providing gifts and other remembrances for those in the armed forces.

John Fields, Jr. Becomes Air Cadet

Antioch high school's senior class president, John Bernard Fields, Jr., became a Navy air cadet this week under the deferred enlistment plan for 17-year-olds, it was announced by the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board at Chicago.

Cadet Fields, who is the son of John B. Fields and Antoinette Fields, was also a member of the conference winning football champs and district winning basketball squad for A. T. H. S. He also participates in baseball and track.

The new cadet will not be called to active training until several weeks after he both reaches his 18th birthday and graduates from A. T. H. S. in June.

High School principals in the Antioch area are accepting the applications of all 17-year-old seniors and graduates who have at least average scholastic records and who desire to take advantage of the Navy's 15-month Navy pilot training.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

A Flying Fortress is to America's air fleet what heavy artillery is to the Army. This gigantic four-motored bomber, equipped with heavy cannon, carries about three tons of bombs and reaches a speed of about 300 miles an hour.

These ships carry a crew of seven to nine men, weigh about 22½ tons, have a wing spread of 105 feet and each motor develops 1,000 horsepower. We need more of these "Flying Fortresses" to compete with the Nazi air force. You can help by investing at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday. Buy them from your bank, post-office or other convenient issuing agent.

Rosing Elected Supervisor; Webb Wins Road Job

Voters Approve Tax Raise for Library; Town Meeting Saturday

Former Supervisor William A. Rosing piled up a substantial plurality of votes over his two opponents in Tuesday's election to win the township supervisor post relinquished by B. F. Naber, and Robert J. Webb polled an amazing vote of over seven hundred, more than his four opponents combined, to succeed Carl Barthel as highway commissioner.

Fred J. Berg, a resident of the township for only four years, showed surprising strength for a newcomer, as it was only since the outbreak of the war that he had opportunity to form acquaintances here through his splendid work with civilian defense groups.

Louis Pregonzer also gave a good account of himself in parts of the township where he is better known, and topped the Rosing vote in Precinct 1, and also in Precinct 2.

Dr. R. D. Williams and Mrs. Eleanor Micheli, candidates for re-election as members of the Township Library board of Trustees were both returned to office without opposition.

Township voters approved the proposition to increase the tax levy for library purposes from 1.2 mills to 2 mills by a vote of 738 to 486.

Commissioners Retain Posts
Incumbent highway commissioners in Lake Villa, Grant and Newport townships were all re-elected in Tuesday's balloting.

In Lake Villa township, John Walker, veteran road commissioner, defeated Everett Belden, 455 to 185.

Henry J. Toneyan, veteran highway commissioner in Grant township, narrowly escaped defeat by a margin of only 20 votes over his opponent, Ben F. Hoehne. The totals showed Toneyan 552 as against 532 for Hoehne.

In Newport township Robert C. Gillings, incumbent, won re-election over Ignatius Sawahin, 270 to 173.

News of Cleveland Era Told in Papers Found in Farmhouse at Millburn

Ira Stephens and Ben R. Burke had an opportunity to turn time backward in its fight, mentally at least, when they found and scanned copies of the Chicago Morning News dating back to the days when Grover Cleveland was president—as they remodeled the old farm home on the Charles Matthews place north of Millburn this week.

The old homestead has been purchased by Lawrence Lubik, retired Chicago baker, who engaged Stephens and Burke as the carpenter contractors for modernizing the place.

The old newspapers were found in a wall of the home. One, dated Friday, June 10, 1887, mentions prohibition and war (Spanish-American) as issues in the coming political campaign.

Another copy, dated Tuesday morning, Nov. 18, 1890, (Chester A. Arthur was president then) told of Indian uprisings at standing rock Sioux agency. Sitting Bull, who at one time had been a prisoner at Fort Sheridan, and who had also for a period been one of the attractions of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Shows, was said to be fostering the war dances and general discontent. There are references in this paper to business failures and the threat of bank failures in the United States and England, and the Bank of France. It is reported, has just come to the rescue of the Bank of England by sending over supplies of gold—backing the British institution to the extent of one million pounds sterling to help it withstand the threatened panic.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel S. Boyer returned Friday after several days visit with relatives in Cincinnati, Ohio. Returning home by way of Dayton they called on Nason Sibley at Wright Field, where Mr. Sibley is superintendent of construction.

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Anderson have returned to their home at Channel lake after several weeks spent in Melbourne, Florida.

No Choice

When the specter of food shortage looms over the family dinner table, the immediate conclusion is now drawn that something is wrong at the production end of the food industry, for the reason that the problems of the farmer have at last reached the headlines for all to see.

However, the problems of processors and distributors of food are equally critical.

Retail food distribution is in danger of collapse. Retailers have reported that employee turnover has reached 500 per cent a year. Loss of manpower is acute and is largely attributable to the "work or fight" order of the government, the "raiding" of key employees by the United States Employment Service, and to the draft. Because food distribution has not been declared essential, many men have felt morally bound to look for jobs in "essential" industry. The resultant impact on the operating efficiency of organized retail distribution, has been staggering.

It would be tragic indeed if food, once produced, failed to reach the tables of consumers. Yet, that is exactly what will happen if the distribution industry is crippled. Approximately 85 per cent of the total volume of food distribution is handled by the organized food distribution system calling for highly trained personnel. This system is composed of proprietary chains, supermarkets, retailer-owned wholesale cooperatives, retailers affiliated with voluntary groups, and large individual retailers. It is the backbone of retail distribution. Without its support, price and rationing regulations and inflationary controls would become virtually unenforceable. Without its continued efficient operation, millions of people would go hungry even if every farm in the country produced to capacity.

There is no choice. The food industry, from farm to merchant, must be freed of red tape and given the necessary skilled manpower to get food into American homes—or American homes will go without food.

Who Is the Government?

This country is face to face with the question of who rules the destinies of the American people. Have we a government of the people, by the people and for the people, or have we a government of powerful cliques, by groups and for vote control?

The United Mine Workers of America, through John L. Lewis, the president, has issued an ultimatum to induct into his union all supervisory officials of the nation's coal mines. There are some 60,000 of these men who occupy positions as mine foremen, assistant mine foremen, tipple foremen, etc. They run the mines under the supervision of the mine management. The official announcement ordering these men to join the union by March 31, also orders them to pay $10 initiation fee and $18 a year dues.

If the United Mine Workers and its officers can take over the management of coal mines in this manner and, in effect, oust the owners and run the mines as they choose, the same thing will shortly happen to all industry. It is frightening to think of an organization so powerful that it can calmly tell 60,000 individuals to join that organization, pay a $10 initiation fee and $18 a month—$1,080,000 the first year—or else. It is still more frightening to think that so far there is no government control sufficiently strong to protect an individual in his right to his job if he fails to join and pay dues as directed.

And this brings up the pertinent question—Who is the government? What has become of the guarantee of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness, in our country?

Apparently, the first step to correct this iniquitous situation is for Congress to revise our laws, and control the rights of powerful organizations to coerce men at will. It is no attack on the labor union movement to make it subservient to government, and to protect the rights of an individual in his job, against coercion from whatever source.

Some Difference

It is one thing for government to broaden individual opportunity and provide a maximum of care for the needy. It is quite a different thing to build up government to where it dictates to the individual in the commonest affairs of life. The first type of government is what our boys are fighting to preserve. The second type is what they think they are fighting to prevent coming to America.

Splendid Contribution Recognized

The Office of Price Administration has issued a public statement thanking the thousands of newspapers in the United States for the millions of dollars worth of space they donated to the government in repeated publication of the voluminous data regarding War Ration Book No. 2. This was an incalculable saving to the government in money and man hours, and a great convenience to the public.

TIPS ON WASHER CARE FROM PUBLIC SERVICE

"How I keep from Growing Old"

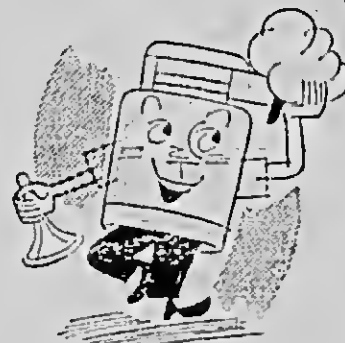

YOU'D never guess my age! But there's only one reason I look so young and work like a brand new washer. That's because my boss gives me special war-time care. She's smart. She knows she can't get a new washer now, so she's making sure I keep working for the duration.

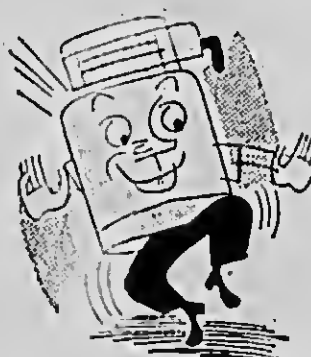

Do as she does—It's very simple to follow my owner's example. The first thing to remember is to clean the washer after using it. Wash, rinse and dry wringer rolls, also release pressure to prevent rubber rolls from flattening.

Rub the tub—The tub should also be washed, but not scoured. Use a mild soap with warm water. And after rinsing the tub, use a soft cloth to dry it. Oh yes! and don't forget to remove the agitator and wash under it, too.

Keep it under cover—When you are finished with the washer, cover it with a cloth to keep it free from dust and dirt. And remember, at the first sign of motor trouble, call an expert repair man. You'll save money in the end.

Lady, be careful—Don't drop the agitator because it might chip the porcelain. The metal would then rust and eventually result in a leak. You ought to treat the enamel on your washer like you do the fine finish on your furniture.

Save the cord—Be sure to keep the cord off the wet floor, never roll the washer over cord. Remember, too, when moving the machine, that the wringer should be directly over rub. It will prevent the washer from tipping.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY of Northern Illinois

What about lubrication?

Well, it depends on the make and age of washer. No general instructions cover all types. So I suggest that you follow the manufacturer's instructions for lubricating your washer.

If you no longer have these instructions available, see your Electric Appliance dealer . . . and you'd better see him right soon, if your washer hasn't been lubricated recently.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—The story of their part in the battle for the Philippines is told in this and the following chapters by four of the five naval officers who are all that is left of Motor Torpedo Boat Squadron 3. They are Lieut. John Bulkeley (now lieutenant commander), squadron commander; Lieut. R. E. Kelly; and Ensigns Anthony Akers and George E. Cox Jr. (The fifth officer, Lieut. Henry J. Branningham, has since arrived from Australia.) The squadron, hand-picked by Bulkeley from volunteers, had come to the Philippines in the fall of 1941. They knew trouble was coming, but the events of December 7 were as much of a surprise to them as to anyone, because they thought the Philippines would be attacked first.

Lieut. Kelly, second-in-command, to whom Bulkeley delegated the task of telling most of the story, describes his preparations for war. Hearing about secret operations orders, he went to the Officers' Club in Manila on the eve of Pearl Harbor and had a thick steak with all the trimmings. After receiving his orders from Bulkeley the next afternoon, he took three of the boats to Mariveles, on Bataan, where they were to report to the submarine leader for provisions and fuel. When they got there they found the tender had been ordered away. So they set up makeshift headquarters in native huts at Sisman Cove.

CHAPTER II—Lieut. Kelly continues: Refueling the boats from drums was a dangerous job. They found water and rust in the gas, but didn't know then that the gas had been sabotaged. Kelly had a badly scratched finger, but couldn't take time to go to the hospital. Lieut. Bulkeley describes the first big air raid.

CHAPTER III—Lieut. Kelly tells how he was sent to a tunnel hospital on Corregidor, where he met Peggy, a nurse. Pearl Harbor and the sinking of a shipload of refugees were brought to the hospital. Patients from Manila were also moved into the tunnel, and Kelly learned from them how badly the war was going.

CHAPTER IV—A member of a tank crew trapped by the Japs concludes his story of their escape as told to Lieut. Kelly in the tunnel hospital on Corregidor. Kelly tells of the heroism of the hospital staff, and especially of the nurse, Peggy, during a severe bombing. Ensign Akers tells some of his experiences just before Manila fell.

CHAPTER V—Ensign Akers continues and Ensign Cox adds his story of the fall of Manila. The PT boats pulled away safely from the burning city. Lieut. Kelly tells how he spent New Year's Eve in the hospital, while Lieut. Bulkeley discussed with the Admiral a plan of escape to China. Bulkeley tells how two of the boats, the 31 and the 34, went out into Subic Bay on a night raid.

CHAPTER VI—Lieut. Bulkeley continues: When the 31 boat didn't show up, Bulkeley, in the 34 boat, cracked up to torpedo a cruiser. Later they learned what happened to the 31 boat. When the sabotaged gas clogged the engines they drifted and landed on a reef. All but two of the men from that crew finally returned. Lieut. Kelly persuaded the doctor to let him out of the hospital and went out on patrol. They broke up a Jap landing party, then captured a landing barge.

CHAPTER VII

"She was empty except for three Japs—must have discharged her landing party and been headed home. One was dead, two were wounded, and one of these two was a Jap officer."

"Bulkeley had his 45 in his hand when he jumped aboard, and immediately this Jap officer went to his knees and began to call, 'Me surrender!—Me surrender!'"

"He was talking fast," said Bulkeley a little grimly; "and he had his hands stuck up very high and stiff, and that ought to stop the myth about how Japs are too noble ever to surrender. I put a line around his shoulders and we hoisted him aboard the 34 boat."

"Then I began rummaging around in that sludge for papers, brief cases and knapsacks. I collected, among other things, the muster list of the landing party and their operations plan, before the boat sank beneath me—Kelly pulled me into his boat as the barge sank."

"One of our men was standing guard over the Jap captain with a 45, and the captain was kneeling with his eyes closed, waiting for what he was sure would be the final shot. He would hardly believe it wasn't coming even when I wiped the oil out of his eyes and looked at his head wound. When he found we weren't going to shoot him, he got a little surly. The soldier asked for a cigarette; but when I offered the Jap captain one, he shook his head. Pretended he didn't speak English, but when they got him back to base, intelligence found he spoke plenty, but wouldn't tell them anything."

"A queer thing had happened to us," said Kelly. "We couldn't be made any more. Ten minutes before we'd all been pumping steel, hating every Jap in the world. Now we were sorry for these two, they were so abject, sitting there on the deck—little half-pint guys—the youngest boy in our crew looked like a full-grown man beside them. Our crew all came up to take a look. 'People had been scared of these guys? It seemed impossible! Any man could handle two of them in a fight. There they were, avoiding our eyes, and yet we had to hand it to them—they'd put up a damned good fight. And our crew were very much impressed by how much a few men can do if they're willing to die. The little private who sat there puffing the cigarette had five holes in him.'"

"The ambulance doctor, glancing at them, said he thought the Jap officer would pull through, but that there wasn't much chance for the little private puffing the cigarette. Matter of fact, he died on the way to the field hospital at Little Baguio."

"You never know when you're going to run into something," said Bulkeley. "A couple of nights later, I was riding the 41 boat on routine patrol off the west coast of Bataan. When we began to get near to Binipican Point, the entrance to Subic, we cut it down to one engine, to make the least possible noise. Just before ten o'clock, I spotted a Jap ship which seemed to be lying to, near shore. We called general quarters and began sneaking up on her—still using only one engine until we got within about twenty-five hundred yards. Then we gave everything the gun and roared in—but almost into a trap. Because the Japs had prepared a little welcome for us, and this ship was seemingly the bait to a trap—they had floating entanglements and wires in the water, which might foul our propellers and leave us a dead target for their batteries. We saw them just in time, and now we saw they were trying to uncoil the trap—because that big ship was showing a wake, trying to get under way."

"At a thousand yards we fired our first torpedo, and it had hardly hit the water before the Jap ship opened up on us with a pom-pom. They'd been playing possum, waiting for us. But what the hell—we wanted to be sure we'd stolen the bait from the trap, so we went right on in, ahead of our own torpedo, and let her have another at four hundred yards. Then I gave hard rudder and as we turned abeam of her, we sprayed her decks with the 50's, and every man on board picked up a rifle and began pumping at her—just for the hell of it—and the Japs were dishing it right back, but not for many seconds. Because all of a sudden—Bam! It was our first torpedo striking home, and pieces of wreckage fell in the water all around us. The explosion gave us our first clear look at her. She was—or had been until then—a modern, streamlined 6,000-ton auxiliary aircraft carrier. Pretty expensive bait for any trap."

"But the Japs weren't through with us. A battery of about half a dozen 3-inch guns opened up on us from the shore—by the flashes we could see they were pumping it to us as fast as they could load, and they certainly took our minds off our other troubles. So with big splashes all around us, we executed that naval maneuver technically known as getting the hell out of there, swerving, weaving, avoiding those damned wire nets, and trying to figure out where the Japs would place their next artillery shots, to make sure we wouldn't be under them—giving her every ounce of gas we could stuff into those six thousand horses; until we were out of range. I think the Japs were getting tired of us MTB's, and risked exposing that ship to rid themselves of a nuisance."

"Early in February they started sending submarines up from Australia, and our boats would always

"Immediately this Jap officer went to his knees."

meet them outside the mine fields and bring them in—Bulkeley getting aboard to ride as pilot. The subs had news: They said America was building a big Australian base—that supplies were rolling down there. The submarine Trout would bring in ammunition for army's 3-inch guns on Bataan and take out gold which had been brought over to Corregidor from Manila before it fell. The unloading, of course, would all be at night, and then Bulkeley would take them out and show them deep water, where they could submerge and hide from Jap bombers during the day. Quezon went out on one submarine to Cebu, and a week later High Commissioner Sayre left on a submarine. It seemed like a good many prominent people were leaving Corregidor. And the army had been pushed back to what we knew were its last and strongest defense positions on Bataan. None of it looked too good."

"Of our original six boats, two had already been lost, DeLong's over Subic Bay, and the 33 boat while I was in the hospital—she'd been going full speed ahead investigating what looked at night like the feather of a Japanese submarine's periscope, only it turned out to be a wave breaking over a little submerged and uncharted coral reef."

"We came close to losing the 32 boat about that time," said Bulkeley. "DeLong and I were riding her the night of February 8, patrolling up the west coast of Bataan as usual. A little before nine o'clock we saw gun blasts on ahead of us in the neighborhood of Bagac Bay, so we put on what speed we could to find out who was shooting at what. Incidentally, the speed wasn't much. Because the 32 boat had had an explosion while they were cleaning that saboteur's wax out of her strainers and tanks, so that now she was held together with braces and wires, and running on only two engines. But pretty soon we sighted a ship dead ahead about three miles away. I was maneuvering to put her in the path of the moonlight on the water so I could make out what she was. But now she seemed to put on speed, heading up in the direction of Subic Bay—maybe, if she had seen us, to get under the protection of the Jap shore batteries there."

"Why had she been firing near Bagac Bay? We learned that later. She was a 7,000-ton Jap cruiser covering a Jap landing party with her guns. We didn't know we'd broken up this party at the time. Following her, we seemed to be gaining because she had apparently slowed down, maybe thinking she had lost us. We were closing on her fast now, when suddenly a huge, big searchlight came on, holding us directly in its beam, and a few seconds later two 6-inch shells came screaming over, landing just ahead of us with a terrific explosion and waterspout. Her searchlight was blinding us and we could only head directly into it, firing the starboard torpedo at that light at about four thousand yards' range. There was another flash of 6-inch guns from the cruiser, and this salvo dropped much closer to us—hardly two hundred yards ahead. A third two-gun salvo landed just astern of us, and then we let her have the port torpedo, figuring the range at a little over three thousand yards."

"Now we were empty, and the problem was to dodge that blinding searchlight. Before we veered off to the east, we tried to douse it with spray of 50-caliber bullets, but they did no good. We could hardly see where our tracers went for the glare. We could see now she was chasing us, firing salvos in pairs from her four 6-inch guns, when suddenly there was a dull boom, and we could see debris and wreckage sailing up through that searchlight's beam. There was a pause in her firing—no doubt about it, one of our torpedoes had struck home, probably the second one. We knew she was crippled because she had slowed down—that light which was trying to hold us in its glare was getting farther and farther away, and about 10:30 we lost it by making a hard turn to the right. Presently it went out. It came on again once or twice on the horizon, feeling for us over the waves, but never found us."

"The next day the army told us we'd broken up a 7,000-ton cruiser's landing party on Bataan near the village of Moron, which was then in no-man's land, and said their planes reported the Japs had had to beach her seventy-five miles up the coast. Still later the planes reported the Japs were breaking her up for scrap. But we brought the 32 boat back safe to the base at Sisman Cove. Our headquarters there was a reformed goat slaughter-house, about one hundred feet long and thirty feet wide, with a concrete floor. We'd scrubbed it out with cresote. It still smelled some, but was habitable. We'd also acquired a tender—an old harbor tug called the Trabajador—and put her in charge of DeLong, who'd lost his ship."

"Then we all sat around envying him," said Kelly, "because here he was, living like an admiral—a cabin, a wardrobe, a real galley—not just a hot plate, which was all we had on the MTB's, and even a mess boy who could bake pie. It was big-ship life, and Bulkeley and I used to find some excuse to go every night and eat his dessert and drink coffee. DeLong liked it so much he later decided to stay on Bataan rather than leave with the rest of us."

"Our plan for making a run for China when our gas was almost gone still stood, and Bulkeley had got hold of some landing-force gear which we knew might be useful on the Chinese coast if we missed connections with our Chungking friends and had to fight our way through the Japs. So we began drilling our men in landing-force procedure."

"This got them very curious. They knew our gas was running out, and we had almost no more torpedoes except the ones which were in the boats. So we told them we were thinking of going south to join the Moros if Bataan fell, and it satisfied them for a while. We let only two other persons in on the secret—Clark Lee and Nat Floyd, newspaper correspondents who had been authorized by the Admiral to make the trip with us."

"The food situation was getting tough. Our breakfast was always hot cakes made without eggs—just flour, water, and baking powder—and the syrup was sugar and water. We hadn't seen butter since the war started. Then for dinner, it was always canned salmon and rice, and you don't know tired you can get of canned salmon until you eat it regularly for a few months. We welcomed any change."

"The one high spot in our diet was the Canopus," said Kelly. "She was an old sub tender, so slow she'd been abandoned, but she had a fine machine shop. She was tied up at the dock and already had been hit twice by bombs, so they worked her at night and abandoned her by day. But among her stores were barrels and barrels of ice-cream mix and a freezer. And her skipper would let anyone in the navy who came aboard eat all the ice cream he wanted as long as those barrels lasted—they held out until the week we left."

"But what we wanted most of all was fresh meat and vegetables, and along about the second week in February the first blockade-runner arrived. We piloted her in at night—rendezvous twenty-five miles out—and as daylight came, our mouths watered as we saw her cargo, strings of bananas piled high on her decks, and below, fresh meat and fruit for Corregidor. That afternoon I went over to see Peggy, and they were all busy slicing steaks and candling eggs. By yelling, screaming, and haggling, I got enough fresh meat to serve our crew two meals that week. She was a welcome little ship, that blockade-runner—made two more trips before the Japs sank her."

"But because of Peggy, my diet was a little better than the others. Since she was on Corregidor, she was entitled, under their rationing system, to buy one item per day from the canteen—a package of gum, a candy bar maybe, from the little supply they had left."

"But Peggy pretended she never cared for them, and every time I came to see her, she'd slip me a pocketful. She bought and saved them every day—just something to nibble while I was out on patrol, she explained."

"I began to feel funny about that break-through to China we were planning. Of course the Admiral had ordered it, and of course it was the way we could be most useful. But here were all these brave people on Bataan and the Rock, Peggy among them, realizing more clearly every day that they would never get out. Doomed, but bracing themselves to look fate in the face as it drew nearer, knowing that they were expendable like ammunition, and that it was part of the war plan that they should sell themselves as dearly as possible before they were killed or captured by the Japs. But a handful of us secretly knew that we, and only we among these many brave thousands, would see home again, and soon."

"And the more I liked Peggy—she was a swell kid—the guiltier I felt. Furthermore, I knew if we ever left, it would have to be soon. Gas was getting dangerously low—barely enough to make the run for China. And so was our torpedo supply. We would have to leave with every tube full if we were to throw effective weight against Jap shipping on the China coast, and in addition to what we would need for this, we had only a few torpedoes left, enough for one good fight—and that was to come sooner than we knew."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Unreality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 4.

The Golden Text was, "What is the chaff to the wheat? saith the Lord" (Jeremiah 23: 28).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Voe unto them that call evil good, and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter! Therefore as the fire devoureth the stubble, and the flame consumeth the chaff, so their root shall be as rottenness, and their blossom shall go up as dust; because they have cast away the law of the Lord of hosts, and despised the word of the Holy One of Israel" (Isaiah 5: 20, 24).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The notion that both evil and good are real is a delusion of material sense, which Science annihilates. Evil is nothing; no thing, mind, nor power. Everything good or worthy, God made. Whatever is valueless or baneful, He did not make;—hence its unreality" (pp. 330, 329).

Plenty of Water and Color

Medjez-el-Bab, Tunisia, (1,200 population) and its neighboring farm valley villages such as Beja to the west and Testour to the south, are inhabited largely by descendants of Moors from Spain. Water is plentiful and the soil contains lime. The plowman with his team of many oxen is part of the peacetime landscape. Color abounds in the Medjez-el-Bab region in the spring when Nature blankets the countryside with orange marigolds, crimson poppies, yellow mignonette, mauve rosemary and gorse bushes blossoming with gold.

Schools Are Community Centers

Speaking at a United Parent-Teachers' association dinner, Dr. John E. Wade, superintendent of New York city's schools, stressed the urgent need for opening public schools at night as community and recreation centers. New York city has pioneered in the use of school facilities for recreation activities and many of its buildings have a wide range of excellent programs to fill the needs of service men, war workers and their families. Custodial service on a 24-hour basis is provided.

Yesterdays

52 YEARS AGO

Ye editor has been quite sick for the past ten days, which accounts for no paper appearing last week. Too much exposure at the fire and too much gripe afterwards is mainly the cause.

On Wednesday evening, April 6, occurred the marriage of Mr. M. Haynes to Miss Nellie Didama. The groom was attired in a suit of black broadcloth while the bride wore a beautiful light brown satin dress. As we go to press one day earlier this week, we are compelled to omit the particulars of the Bierman and Gilroy horse-trading suit which came up before Squire Huntington Tuesday.

John G. Whittier is quoted by the Danvers, Mass., correspondent of the New York Sun as saying "My writing days are over."

34 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Sara Ann Hook, mother of Elmer and Loran Hook of Antioch, passed away at her home in Waukegan, Tuesday morning.

Jack Stewart, Hebron, has disposed of his livery business to Harvey M. Mann of Antioch, taking in exchange a farm near Antioch.

Wiping Linoleum Daily

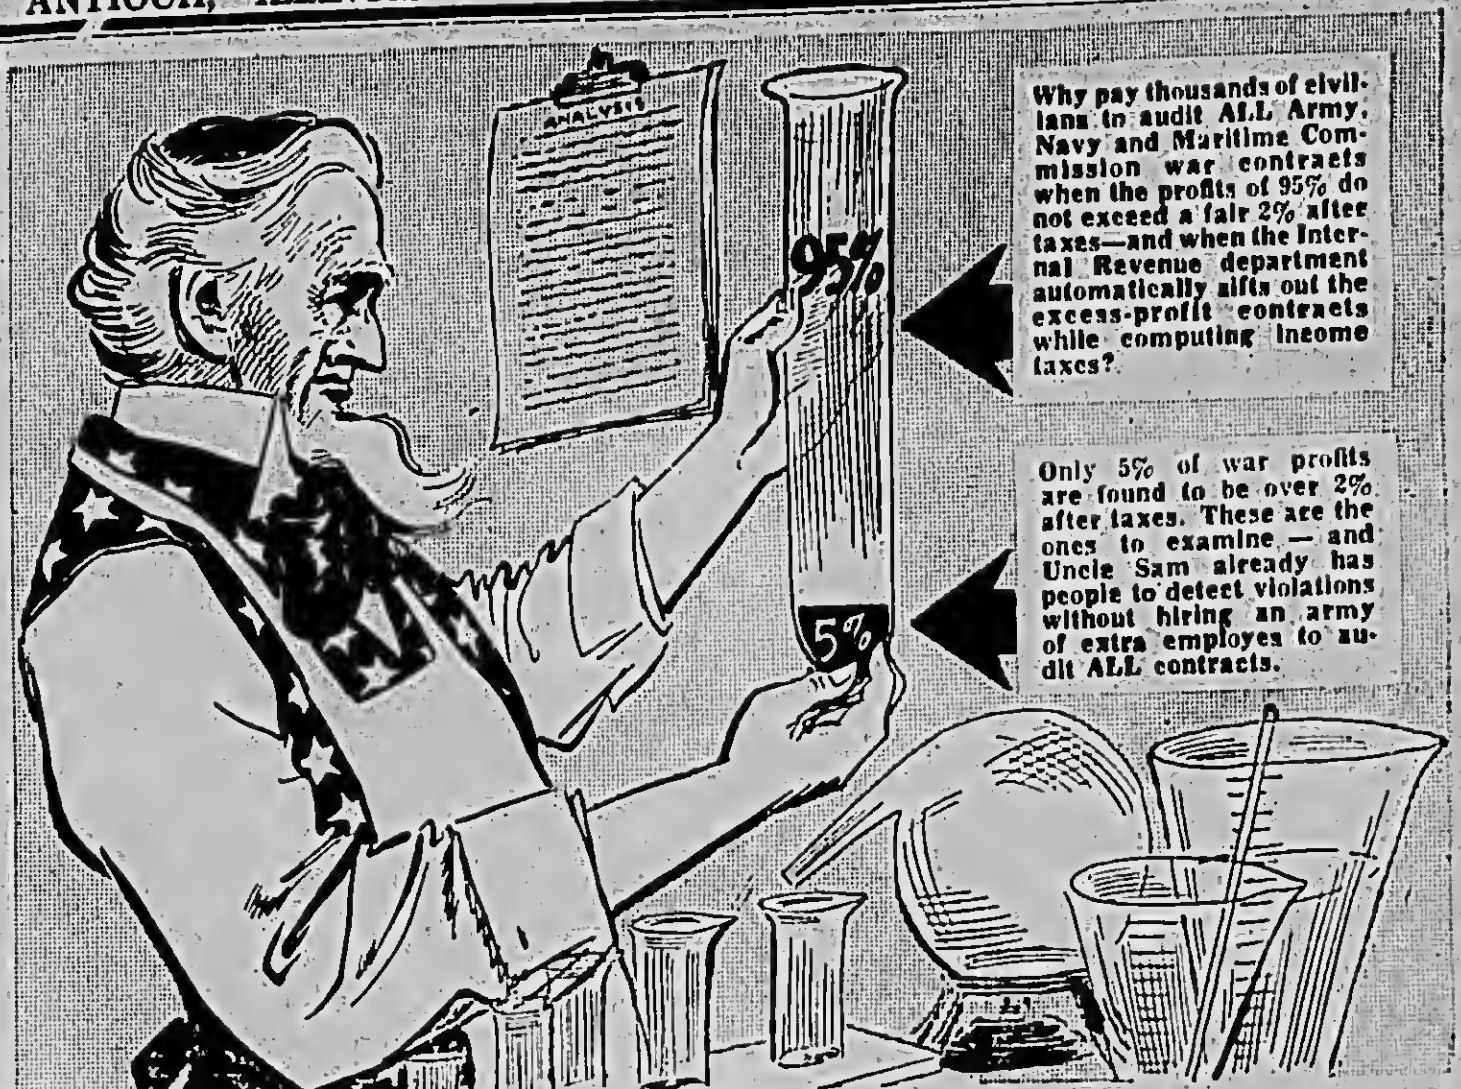

Kitchen linoleum that has been waxed can be kept clean by wiping it daily with a cloth wrung out in cool soapy water. Dry the floor with a clean scrub cloth or other soft material. Scrubbing should be reserved for the times when it is necessary to apply a fresh coat of wax. Frequency of re-waxing depends upon the amount of traffic that crosses the floor and the between-core given the linoleum.

Malaria! Scourge

Malaria is a persistent scourge in Chittagong, India, because of numerous mud flats and stagnant pools. Smallpox and cholera also are prevalent. Winds sometimes bring the city into the headlines. Worst storms swept it in 1849, 1872, 1876 and 1887, laying it low for a time. Laden with moisture, the southwest monsoon cools the air, drenches the land with dew and rain, and envelops the town in dense fogs.

Marine Emblem

The emblem of the marine corps is a combination of the eagle, anchor and hemisphere.

NEED FOR UNITED EFFORT

To win this war we must have unity of effort. "The do-as-I-tell-you-not-as-I-do" attitude will never mobilize national power or bring speedy victory.

This need for united effort was emphasized by the President in his recent call for a 40 per cent reduction in the use of government automobiles. Take the use of tires and gasoline by various federal agencies. A report of the Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures says:

"Despite the growing automobile crisis, both in tires and gasoline, the investigation of the committee indicates that for the first four months of the present fiscal year the various agencies of the government, exclusive of the Army and Navy, continued for the most part to use as many passenger cars, to drive as many miles, and to consume about as much gasoline as did these agencies in a comparable period of the previous year, notwithstanding the efforts of the government to reduce the consumption of gasoline and conserve rubber."

Same Standard for All

"The committee believes that the same standard of strictly essential driving should be applicable to government employees as now applies to individual citizens."

The committee gives figures upon which its conclusions are based. In the last fiscal year the government owned 17,305 passenger automobiles, exclusive of the Army and Navy and exclusive of trucks and motorcycles. It now owns 18,953 passenger automobiles.

News of the Boys

Captain and Mrs. Robert W. Hughes, of Fort Riley, Kansas, have been guests this week of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hughes. Captain Hughes, formerly with the 2nd Cavalry regiment, is now instructor with the Armored Force school and is being transferred to Fort Knox, Kentucky. Capt. Hughes realizes the importance of his work in training soldiers in the skillful use of firearms. America, Hughes says, has the best guns in the world and failures in the present war in many cases have been due to lack of training in their use. It is Bob's job to see that men under his instruction become proficient in the handling of their weapons.

Dear Sirs:
Just to let you know I'm fine, and to thank you for sending the Antioch News, it sure feels well to hear what is going on in the home town.

Most of the fellows in my company here are from Chicago and they all think the Army is grand.

The weather here is getting very warm now, and I know now what they mean when they say sunny California.

Everyone here is working hard to win the war, and I see by the paper the folks at home are also.

In a letter from "somewhere in England" to his parents, Jim Mapletorpe writes concerning the Red Cross:

"We have a Red Cross club here on the base as do most all the bases. We can get doughnuts, real ham sandwiches and all kinds of things we used to get at home. The Red Cross is sure doing a swell job over here, and I imagine they are doing the same everywhere else."

Otto H. Gussarson, formerly of Camp Callan, Calif., has acquired the rating of corporal and has been transferred to the radio school at Los Angeles, Calif. Corp. Gussarson's address is 2604 W. Adams Gardens in Los Angeles.

Donald H. Minto, seaman 1st class, stationed at Davisville, R. I., is spending a ten day leave here with his parents and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Minto.

Fort Myers, Fla.—Sgt. Walter C. Edimann, son of Mrs. Marie Edimann of Antioch, Ill., was graduated Monday from the Army Air Forces Flexible Gunnery school at Fort Myers, Fla.

Now qualified as an aerial gunner, he will become a member of one of the thousands of bomber crews which will be sent overseas in a few weeks to battle the Nazis or the Japs somewhere "over there." He will receive his crew training at an operational training field in the United States.

Hundreds of gunners are graduated each week from the school located near Fort Myers. The course lasts only five weeks and covers everything from BB and skeet shooting to firing from the power-operated turret of the large B-34 Bomber on special missions over the Gulf of Mexico.

Sgt. Edimann has been in the army 8 months. He is also a radio operator.

GIRLS HEAR TALK ON NURSES TRAINING

(By Clare Sieben)

Last Wednesday afternoon the Junior and Senior girls were honored by a visit from Miss Phelan, a registered nurse from the Illinois State Nurses Training. When she addressed the girls she gave requirements for entry into an accredited training school. Some of the requirements are: an entrant must be a high school graduate in the upper half of her class, she must be eighteen years old or within two months of her eighteenth birthday, and she must also be in good physical condition.

Miss Phelan also told the girls the type of work a student nurse does, where she lives, the time she had for herself and her family, the classes she must attend, and other details concerning the life of a student nurse.

When she had concluded her talk Miss Phelan asked if there were any questions that any of the girls would like to ask. After she had answered the many questions put to her, she passed a sheet of paper among the groups and had the girls who wished additional information on accredited training schools and colleges to sign their names, addresses, and year in high school.

She then dismissed the group but invited any girls who wished to stay and talk with her seriously about training to remain. A group of twelve girls remained for a full hour and had a truly beneficial talk. Miss Phelan talked in a straightforward manner to the girls, advising them individually about their own problems. She advised all of the girls to visit as many hospitals as they could on May 12. On this day, which is Florence Nightingale Day, all hospitals hold Open House.

When it was all over the 12 future student nurses emerged inspired and you may expect to find at least six of this year's graduating class entering some accredited schools of nursing this coming fall.

We have been anticipating a visit of this sort from a registered nurse and we greatly appreciated the opportunity of talking with one.

TEACHERS TROUCE GIRLS IN FLASHY BASKETBALL GAME

(By Judy Pregoner)

Hidden talent—that's what it is! Everyone expected the All-Stars to beat the faculty, but those women surprised us because the tally at the end of the game was six to three in favor of the teachers.

This basketball game was played for the purpose of making money for the Girls' Athletic association. The admission was a nickel or a dime—whatever you preferred. Since the girls had a little trouble getting players on the faculty side (maybe the teachers were afraid they'd lose their lives or maybe they just couldn't play) three Senior girls helped out. We all laughed a lot watching the fair sex gallop down the floor and toss the ball around. Seriously, though, we have some good girl basketball players in A. T. H. S. The game was a good one and we were all thrilled when Miss Krusa sunk three balls in the faculty basket.

It's a shame we can't continue to have the games since Miss Dixon seems to be a very promising player and the team could go far with that pass of Miss Patterson's. Everyone knows that Miss Reynolds really "knows her stuff."

Typing Students Increase Skill

(By Barbara Prindle)

Now that the windows are again open in A. T. H. S., the staccato sounds one hears when passing by is not Jan machine guns at work but only five hundred eighty busy fingers in the typing classes of Miss Krusa and Miss Reynolds.

There are four classes—beginning and advanced. These students have completed the study of the different styles of letters. Right at this point they are studying the construction of night and day letters and telegrams. They are also working on Competent Typing Tests.

The advanced class has only twelve students, but these students get their share of it, too. They also are taking Competent Typing Tests. In addition, they are working on the senior O. A. T. (Order of Artistic Typists). This provides practice in correct and special forms.

Although forty-seven typing students seems like a lot to be taking typing there is an ever increasing demand for typists in these critical times. Many of these students will use this knowledge in their work around Antioch. Some may be in offices here at home while others may be overseas.

Wherever they go they will find their skill needed and so we hand them one and all our laurel wreath for the week. May they keep up the good work.

Seniors Select Broadway Hit for 1943 Class Play

(By June Spangard)

The seniors of the Antioch Township High school this year are giving, as their class play, a smash hit from Broadway, "Best Foot Forward." The play was such a hit that recently production has been started in Hollywood. The entire New York cast has been sent to movieland to make the picture.

It is the story of a prom at a boys' boarding school where the boys are hosts to girls who are their guests for the senior dance.

The cast is unusually large; it has seventeen characters. The following students are in the play: Howard Hageman, Marjorie Hasney, Roman Pfannenstili, Sarah McBride, Charles Fisher, Virginia Poulsen, Earl Brixen, Betty Scheibe, Elmer Hartnell, Clara Sieben, Milton Smith, Clara Wurster, Bernard Sherman, Lura Jean Minto, Patricia Ryan, William Dow and James Cunningham. It is being directed by Mrs. C. B. Cass.

The play because of high royalty rates will be given on one night only, April 30.

Sequoits Show Talent at Annual Concert

(By Billie May Runyard)

The consensus of opinion seems to be that the concert last Friday was excellent. I've asked people of all kinds just what they thought of it—some of them were particularly impressed with one of the divisions but on the whole those asked say that the talent was equally divided. Most persons were surprised that "Just High School" kids could perform with so much more ease and apparent musical talent.

Another proof of success is found in the fact that this concert was the best attended concert ever staged. As yet we are not sure of the returns. They will, however, be used for more much needed music for the various departments, and also, the money will go toward a larger public address system.

The splendid support shown by your attendance has made it possible for the music department to plan other concerts for your enjoyment. Perhaps the next one will be on or near Memorial Day. Your attendance was appreciated—thanks!

That Explains It

Private Gene B. Harry Jr., one of hundreds of marine corps recruits undergoing training at the marine rifle range at Parris Island, S. C., committed an unpardonable error on the firing line. He dipped the muzzle of his rifle into the ground while reloading.

A veteran marine, coaching the recruits, leaped into the air and came down with his tongue flying.

"Where the devil do you come from, boot?" he yelled.

"From Blue Hill, Maine," replied the recruit.

"That explains it," the coach whispered. "So do I."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Allied Forces Continue Drive in Tunisia; Pressure for Tough Labor Legislation Halted by Continuation of Coal Parley; Soggy Terrain Hampers Red Offensive

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

A British Bofors gun as it was pulled toward the front in Tunisia by a British army lorry. Note how the road is lined with German tank debris. In foreground is a Nazi tank turret. This official British photo was made after the Allies repulsed the Germans between Thala and the Kasserine Pass.

TUNISIA:

'Fox' Seeks Cover

When Marshal Rommel threw back the British eighth army in the narrow coastal corridor of Tunisia, it looked like the great struggle of the Mareth line might resolve into a bloody battle of attrition. But then Gen. Bernard Montgomery sent a strong armored column around the southern anchor of the Mareth line and it succeeded in swinging back and trapping the Axis forces from the rear.

Thus faced with heavy pressure from his front and rear, Rommel pulled out his army from the Mareth line. As the British took over Gabes and El Hamma, Rommel was withdrawing northward toward the marshes and salt flats strung out along the coastal plain. Here Rommel is expected to concentrate his army of 80,000 men in the few passable trails.

Threatening Rommel's flank for almost 100 miles up the coastal plain to the north, were two American columns. One was poised at Maknassy and the other at Fondouk. Both overlook roads leading to the main path of Rommel's retreat. Should either of these forces break through the Allies would cut the Axis armies in the south off from those in the north.

BASE:

For Offensive?

When Herbert Morrison, British home security minister, announced that the entire east and south coast of Great Britain to a depth of ten miles was to become a "restricted area," military experts began speculating on their predictions regarding the Allied invasion of Europe.

In fact, the official British announcement declared that there was a possibility that this area might be used as "a base for offensive operations."

Meanwhile, London sources were busy issuing bits of information leading friend and foe alike to believe that as soon as the fighting was over in Tunisia, the invasion of the continent would begin. British, U. S. and Canadian land forces were massed together with air and sea power for this action, these reports indicated, and practically every mile of coastline was said to be the first objective of the United Nations' drive.

BERLIN:

Blocks Busted

One thousand tons of bombs were showered on Berlin by 400 British bombers in the 60th air raid of the war on the German capital. Twenty-one ships failed to return.

The raid on Berlin followed an equally heavy assault on the Nazi submarine base of St. Nazaire. Here, 1,000 tons of bombs also were reported dropped on docks, hangars and warehouses. One-quarter of the city was aflame and seven huge fires raged.

Continuing to pound Germany's vital industrial valley of the Ruhr, RAF bombers pounded the iron, steel and coal center of Bochum, which stands 10 miles east of the great Krupp steel works of Essen. Bombs also were dropped on the engine manufacturing center of Duisburg.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

SMALL FAMILIES: Out of the 35 million families in the U. S. in 1940, 85 per cent had two children or less. The birth rate of 1942 also fell below the World War I standard despite the recent record level.

TAXES: Nearly 40 million income tax returns have been filed, the treasury reported, and income tax payments for March approximated $4,500,000,000.

BUMS RUSHED: On a recent night, only 629 vagrants applied for shelter in British institutions. This was the lowest figure in 100 years. 10,911 were housed during the peak of the depression of 1932.

DRAFT: Only employment in essential industry is now considered grounds for draft deferment. Dependency is no longer regarded as a factor.

CONGRESSMEN:

And Garden Seeds

Out of the nation's capital came this message to the country's ambitious 1943 Victory Gardeners:

Don't ask your congressman, whoever he is, for garden seeds. He'll be glad to get you all the information booklet obtainable (from the department of agriculture) but he hasn't been giving away seeds since 1923.

The practice of giving away seeds was stopped at that time because the packets were cluttering up the Capitol and encouraging great armies of rats to invade the offices of the lawmakers.

Requests are still coming in, say the congressmen, and cannot be filled for no seeds are available.

The fact that such requests have been addressed to congressmen indicates the widespread interest in the Victory Garden program.

FARM LABOR:

New Plans

Shortly after he had been summoned to Washington as the nation's new food administrator, Chester C. Davis conferred with President Roosevelt, Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard and farm leaders to discuss means of handling the mounting crisis in farm labor. Later, President Roosevelt declared that while Davis was not yet to make known his plans, it was rather definite that a strongly persuasive program to get draft-age men in nonessential pursuits to shift to war jobs, including agriculture.

First objective would now be to get former experienced workers back into dairying. It is here that the farm labor situation is most critical. Employment offices throughout the country are now listing names of dairy farmers needing help and county war boards are urging men between 38-45 with dairy or farm experience to seek re-employment at these places.

Conscientious objectors may be released from camps to take farm jobs; men now classified 4F now on

CLAUDE WICKARD
The mounting crisis in farm labor

nonessential jobs will be urged to get into essential work; selective service registrants over 45 having dairy experience will be urged to get back into that line of work; and if these methods do not work county war boards will obtain the names of experienced dairy workers who have left the farm and these workers will be urged to return.

It is predicted that these general methods will be used in solving the labor problem in all other lines of farming in addition to dairying.

Also in the offing is the organization of a "land army" to help harvest the nation's food crops this year. English-speaking workers from the Bahama islands and Jamaica may be brought in for work in the East and Mexicans may be used in the Southwest.

LONE FORTRESS

A single American Flying Fortress wrote its own page of history in the South Pacific when it forced a Japanese convoy of four fast destroyers to turn tail as it attempted to reinforce New Guinea garrisons.

The Fortress spotted the convoy in the same Bismark sea area where a Jap convoy of 22 ships was sunk in March. Although the weather was so bad the bombardier had to drop flares to illuminate the target, he scored a direct hit on the stern of the largest destroyer.

The 2nd War Loan Starts April 12

13 billion dollars must be raised!

THE GOVERNMENT of the United States is asking us to lend it 13 billion dollars in the next few weeks. We can do it. And we must do it. Every American must realize the truth:

In this, our toughest war, we've made a good start. We've trained a lot of men—made a lot of weapons—built a lot of ships.

But it's only a start. No man or woman among us would contend for a single instant that we're doing enough now to win this war!

We've Got to Build More!

We broke all records building 8 million tons of shipping last year. But grim-faced Army and Navy men will tell you that the 18 MILLION tons we're building this year still won't be enough!

We've Got to Fight More!

From now till this war is won, America must be on the offensive. In ever-increasing numbers, our sons, brothers, husbands must go into actual battle. Our losses have already begun to mount—and they will not grow less.

And We've Got to Buy More War Bonds!

Sure we're all buying War Bonds now. But we've got to help pay for our increased fighting and building

... We've got to match, as best we can the sacrifice of those Americans who are toiling and sweating on a dozen battlefronts—with the bloodiest yet to come. The blunt fact is this: to keep our war machine going, we've got to dig up 13 billion extra dollars this month. 13 billion dollars over and above our regular War Bond buying!

In the next few weeks you may be visited by one of the thousands of volunteers who are contributing their time and effort to this Drive. But don't wait for him. Make up your mind now that before this drive is over, you're going to march right down to your nearest bank, Post Office, or place where they sell War Bonds, and do your duty. And don't ever forget this: in doing your duty, you're doing yourself one of the biggest favors of your life!

For United States War Bonds are the greatest investment in the world—bar none. They're investments tailored to fit your particular situation. And they give you the chance of a lifetime to order and get the kind of world you want to live in after this war. Every cent you put in War Bonds now will help to guarantee plenty of peace-time jobs making peace-living for every one of us.

For your Country's sake—for your own sake—invest all you can!

There Are 7 Government Securities — Choose The Ones Best Suited For You:

PETER AND JOHN WITNESS CHRIST'S GLORY

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:2-8; II Peter 1:16-18
GOLDEN TEXT—A voice came out of the cloud, saying, This is my beloved Son; hear him.—Mark 9:7.

Christ is God! The one who comes to know that truth is ready to follow Christ, and to make Him known to others. The word of such a true conception of the Son of God weakens our convictions and hinders our usefulness.

"Where there is no vision, the people perish," said the wise man (Prov. 29:18). For want of a true vision of Christ as God, and the God-given constraint which makes men give themselves in sacrificial service, the people perish in their sins.

Peter and John saw our Lord in His transfiguration, and the glow of that experience lighted their entire life and ministry. The touch of the supernatural was on these men and their message—for they had seen the glory of Christ.

I. The Amazing Glory of the Son (Mark 9:2-6).

The transfiguration of Christ is one of those wonderfully beautiful and deeply spiritual experiences which defy analysis or satisfactory description. Poetry and art have vainly tried to depict it only to become "in fact a confession of the impotence of the loftiest art to rise to the level of the divine" (Van Dyke).

Peter was so dazzled that he could only suggest that they remain there, forgetting for the moment that down in the valley was demon-ridden humanity waiting for the divine deliverance of the Son of God (see Luke 9:37-42).

What took place on the mount can possibly best be explained as the outshining of the inner glory of the Christ. He had laid aside His glory when He became flesh, but not His divine attributes as very God. There in the presence of God and the heavenly visitors that glory shone through His humanity and His appearance became dazzling in its whiteness.

II. The Approving Word of the Father (Mark 9:7, 8).

A cloud, like the cloud which filled the Temple of old (I Kings 8:10), covered them. The Father spoke out of the cloud words of approval of His Son.

These words carry "both judgment and command; judgment concerning Jesus. 'This is my beloved Son,' and command to the disciples, 'Hear ye him'—that is, 'Listen to him'" (Lesson Commentary).

John and Peter came to a fuller conviction that He was the Son of God as they saw Him transfigured and heard the words of the Father. They learned more plainly the fact that He was God manifest in the flesh for the redemption of man. They saw in the indescribable beauty of that moment a foregleam of His coming glory. What important truths—His deity, His redemption, His coming kingdom. Have we learned them as we have beheld His glory?

III. The Assured Faith of the Disciples (II Pet. 1:16-18).

These words were written by Peter when he was nearly eighty years of age—about thirty-five years after the transfiguration. John wrote sixty years after the event and said, "We beheld His glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father" (John 1:14).

The one who follows these eye-witnesses in believing in Christ may share their assurance expressed by Peter that we do not "follow cunningly devised fables" in making known to the world the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. Our faith is built on God's Word, and upon such testimony as this by eye-witnesses. Here is real ground for assured belief in Christ.

Great experiences of spiritual renewing and power lead to effective life and testimony for Christ. They may not be in outward manifestation, in fact they are most often in the inner recesses of man's soul; but they do transform men and send them forth to magnificent living for God. One wonders if much of the dearth of power in the Christian Church is not to be attributed directly to the lack of such experiences with God.

The disciples had an unforgettable mountain-top experience. Even so have many others found the secret of power. It came to D. L. Moody as he walked down a New York street, praying in agony, "Deliver me from myself. Take absolute sway." The story of what happened to him and through him as a surrendered instrument in God's hand is written large on the pages of history. Others have had similar experiences.

Let us remember that such privileges are not reserved for a few, they are the birthright of every Christian. Power without knowledge is a dangerous and destructive thing, but knowledge without power is a dead thing, resulting in a stale and unfruitful orthodoxy that in turn produces a dreadful and unchristian religious system.

Algerians Compelled to Produce
Every farmer in Algeria is obliged by law to collaborate in the production of oil-bearing seeds, says the United States department of commerce. Each producer may select the kind of seed he desires to produce—castor, flax, sunflower, soybean or cotton—within the limits of the total acre set for each kind and subject to certain conditions of soil and climate. The seeds are largely used in the production of oils for point.

Rubber From Alcohol
In the synthetic rubber picture, butadiene from alcohol and other agricultural products is now a certainty. Waste sulfate liquors and exploded wood chips are constantly contributing large volumes of lignin plastics. Similarly, the plastics industry may expect to see a continued use of products derived from the naval stores industry.

Dairy Products
Demand for dairy products in 1943 will be high relative to the produced supply, point out Massachusetts State college extension economists. Dairy production for the country during 1942 was about 120 billion pounds. During 1943 dairy production may reach 125 billion pounds.

Substitute Glass for Metal
Substitution of glass containers for metal cans in the paint industry will reduce its steel consumption from 73,000 tons to 6,700 tons.

War Need for Bristles
Bristles now come under the head of war munitions. Manufacturers prefer plucked bristles rather than those which have been clipped. Hair from horse and cattle tails also is needed along with the hair from horses' manes. County agricultural agents should be able to give information about markets.

Oil, Grease on Rubber Harmful
Rubber footwear will last longer if kept clean. Oil and grease are especially harmful if allowed to remain long enough to penetrate into the rubber. Many shoes and boots have been ruined by being placed too near stoves while attempting to dry them.
